

A year ago today, on July 29, 2022, my beloved wife Fran died, leaving me, her relatives, and our daughter Nastya behind to mourn and remember her.

They say time cures all wounds. Not true. Our pain has gotten duller over the last twelve months, but will never go away. We want to thank our friends for their love and support throughout this difficult period.

